Mr. Edinborough's operation is well organized, well managed, proactive and reactive when appropriate. The group works well together and with other individuals, usually offering cogent solutions to any problems or unusual situations that arise in the course of the maintenance operation. His staff is very dependable and he inspires and encourages a loyalty based on his leadership and managerial skills.

Staffhire has produced results that satisfy our customers to the point that we receive high praise and bonuses, which in our business are very rare.

I have no reservation in recommending Mr. Edinborough and his company and look forward to a long preferred provider relationship with his company.
